MUSCLE SHOALS BID WITHDRAWN

Ford Says Business Can Not Wait on Politics.

NEXT MOVE UP TO UNCLE SAM

Motor Car Manufacturer Declares His Proposal Has Become a Complicated Political Affair, and Therefore He Is Withdrawing His Bid—Adds the Public Must Not Permit Muscle Shoals to Be Broken Up.

Detroit, Oct. 14.—A report that Henry Ford had withdrawn his offer to purchase Muscle Shoals was confirmed here by Edsel Ford, son of the motor car king.

Young Ford declared that the interview in Collier's Weekly to the effect that Henry Ford had withdrawn his bid for Muscle Shoals had been approved by his father.

The article in Collier's Weekly has Henry Ford assuming a waiting attitude by putting the next move up to the government. Ford is quoted as saying that his proposal "has become a complicated political affair," and the bid was withdrawn "because productive business can not wait on politics." Ford continues:

"We have been and still are deeply interested in Muscle Shoals as a national asset. There is small promise now that it ever will be a national asset—more than likely it will be only an expense. That concerns every one of us as citizens. In the Ford business, once we make up our minds to do anything, we go right ahead and do it with the least possible waste of time, energy and money. If we can not do what we want in one way, then we find another. We are moving so fast and the settlement of Muscle Shoals' future seemed so far away that we had to find other means to do the things we could have accomplished at Muscle Shoals. In fact, we have passed Muscle Shoals. Productive business can not wait on politics. Therefore, we are withdrawing our bid."

Ford is quoted as putting the problem up to the government, saying: "We have made out bid; now let them make us a bid. And they will not have to wait three years for their answer. We can tell them in five minutes. The public must not permit Muscle Shoals to be broken up, for through its nitrate production it can be our greatest guarantee for peace on the one hand and for the farmers on the other. I believe the army engineers could carry it through if they were allowed to exercise their own judgment and work unhampered—for they are a fine lot of men. But probably the best course is that suggested by the president—to appoint an impartial commission."

BATTLE WITH CONVICTS

One Killed and One Wounded by Guards at State Prison.

Moundsville, W. Va., Oct. 14.—A double tragedy was enacted here. Earl Blankenship, 22, of Clarksburg, was shot and killed and Harry McCracken, 23, of Fairmont, was wounded by guards in a break for liberty from West Virginia state prison. Blankenship had used a crudely made master key to open his cell and that of his companion. As they stepped into the corridor they were confronted by Guard N. G. Blake, whom they overpowered and bound with a bed sheet. Blankenship took Blake's gun and keys and started toward the main prison gates. They were forced to take cover on sight of other guards, however, and in the meantime Blake had crawled to the guardhouse and spread the alarm. Seeing they were trapped, Blankenship started firing with Blake's revolver, in an attempt to run the gauntlet of the guards. A fusillade from the rifles in the hands of the guards dropped them.

Cleveland, Oct. 14.—Arthur A. Kneller, 29, surrendered himself to police as the owner of an automobile that overturned another car here. One man was killed, three injured and both automobiles wrecked in the accident. Kneller told police he had been wandering about in a dazed condition for 24 hours.

ELOPED WITH PREACHER

Statewide Search Instituted by Police For a Girl of 16.

Xenia, O., Oct. 14.—A statewide search has been launched for Anna Tollen, 16, who eloped from here with her pastor, Charles Payne, 33, who is married and the father of three children.

"I love him and I couldn't help it," the girl wrote her mother in a letter postmarked Washington C. H. "We're not going far away and we'll be married soon." The pastor wrote: "Anna and I fell in love the first time we saw each other, but Zola (his wife) and I never could agree. She knows I love Anna and is going to get a divorce. As soon as things open up we will get married."

Several weeks ago the pastor sued for divorce, but a decree was denied. The affair is said to have started while Payne, an itinerant preacher, was holding revivals.

DEFENDING ARMY IN ORDERLY RETREAT

Vanquished Forces Find Refuge in City of Shanghai.

Shanghai, Oct. 14.—The vanquished defenders of Shanghai began an orderly retreat into the city, while the attacking Kiangsu troops occupied the Lungwha arsenals.

The positions to be occupied by thousands of defeated Chekiang troops has not been determined and foreign marines keep watchful guard at the settlement barriers.

Lu Yung Hsiang took a fortune with him when he fled. Looting of the native districts is feared, although Chi Hsieh Yuan's troops have been warned to respect the rights of civilians and especially foreigners in Shanghai.

The outcome of the two months' battle for Shanghai means that Chi-sun will be able to reinforce his ally, Wu Pei Fu, who is combating Chang Tso-lin in the north. Lu, Chang's ally, has failed him.

Fighting has broken out in Canton between labor troops and merchant volunteers. In the first skirmish 15 persons were killed and many wounded. The labor troops were defeated and a number were captured.

St. Paul Wins Championship.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 14.—St. Paul, champions of the American association, won the minor league championship title by defeating Baltimore yesterday in the ninth and final game of the series. The score was 6 to 3, the Saints winning five victories and the Orioles four. Howard Merritt, the St. Paul southpaw, kept the Baltimore hits scattered in the final contest. Features of the game were home runs by Dessen and Dixon of St. Paul and Maisel of Baltimore.

WILL INTEREST BUSINESS MEN

Trade Problems to Be Discussed at Conference.

INDUSTRIAL LEADERS TO TALK

Meeting Will Be Held in Co-operation With the Fourth Annual Nationwide Observance of "Management Week." Budgeting For Better Management to Be General Topic For the Week. Official Program.

Columbus, Oct. 14.—Under the auspices of the college of commerce and journalism, a two-day conference will be held Oct. 23 and 24 on the Ohio State university campus in the interests of Ohio business men and others interested in business problems. The conference will be held in co-operation with the fourth annual nationwide observance of "Management Week," Oct. 20 to 25.

The general topic for the week is "Budgeting for Better Management." The campus conference will dovetail with the program to be presented in 64 cities.

One section will discuss production control through budgeting. Another will deal with efficient office management from the standpoint of physical equipment, as well as personnel. These sectional meetings will occupy two hours each morning and afternoon. Luncheon and dinner meetings also are being arranged.

The conference method will be followed throughout, instead of lengthy platform talks. A designated leader will be relied upon to bring out the main points in each topic and general discussion will be relied upon to round out the consideration of each topic, as far as possible.

Industrial leaders and experts of wide experience have been obtained for the university sessions and officials of various Ohio industries are being invited to take an active part.

The section meeting on office management will be led by W. H. Leffingwell of the Taylor Society, New York City. The discussion of budgetary control of production will be led by J. O. McKinsey of the University of Chicago, who is author of several books on budgeting and managerial accounting.

Thursday, Oct. 23, a dinner is planned as one of the evening features. Friday, Oct. 24, the college of engineering, in conjunction with the Columbus Engineers' club, will present a program. Robert Kent, consulting engineer, will speak. Many of the visiting business men probably will remain over for the Chicago-Ohio State football game in the stadium, Oct. 25.

HUGHES' STAND

Domestic Questions Not to Be Submitted to Any Group of Powers.

Indianapolis, Oct. 14.—Secretary of State Hughes declared in a political address here that American sentiment will not tolerate submission of domestic questions to the determination of any group of powers. He did not mention the proposed league of nations protocol by name, but he laid stress on the question of jurisdiction over domestic issues, which, at the behest of Japan, occupied so large a place in the recent discussions at Geneva.

"Recently," the secretary said, "the question has been discussed of the appropriateness of investing a group of powers with the authority to deal with domestic questions, not questions arising under treaties by which parties have limited their rights, but with questions within the competency of a nation as to which it has not limited its rights. The sentiment of this country, I repeat, would not tolerate the submission of such questions which pertain to our own policy to the determination of any group of powers. It would not be willing to enter any organization through which a group of powers would be in a position to intervene or attempt to determine our policies for us."

Aviator Killed.

Columbus, Oct. 14.—Lester G. Jindra, 21, of Manitowac, Wis., aviator, stationed at Wilbur Wright field, Dayton, died here from injuries received when he walked into the propeller of his machine. OHIO HAPPENINGS

Young Mothers in Ohio.

Columbus, Oct. 14.—There are 13 mothers in Ohio who are only a little more than 13 years old, according to records of the state bureau of vital statistics. These help make up the total of 76 Ohio mothers who are under 15. The youngest mother was 10 years, 11 months old, when her baby was born. Records show that many of the children of these child-mothers die soon after birth. The oldest mother found was 53.

Steamboat Inspector Dead.

Gallipolis, O., Oct. 14.—Captain William H. Clark, 73, the oldest federal steamboat inspector on the Ohio river, is dead at Point Pleasant, W. Va. Captain Clark gained some prominence in his inspection of life preservers for the government at New York following the General Slocum disaster a few years ago, when that ship burned and several hundred passengers perished.

RUM RUNNER IN THE TOILS

CAPTAIN AND CREW PRISONERS

Decks of Vessel Found Strewed With 43,000 Cases of Whisky, With All on Board Stupefied—Crew Caroused and Fought Every Day Since the Vessel Cleared From Antwerp—The Captain's Story.

New York, Oct. 14.—The Norwegian steamer Sagatind was captured by the coast guard cutters Raritan and Seneca after three shots had been fired across her bow.

With her captain and crew of 32 locked below deck, the Sagatind is anchored off Sandy Hook, with her decks strewn with 43,000 cases of whisky.

Revenue officers found whisky jumbled about on the decks, two sailors noring drunkenly in the wheel house, the other 20 members of the crew in their bunks and the captain locked in his cabin. All aboard were stupefied from liquor except three men, whose laws were broken. One man flushed with fever called for water. His leg was broken three days before in a fight.

The rest of the crew, cursing and staggering from drink, were herded from the forecabin to the deck. Not a man among them had a whole garment on his back. Two of them had their arms in crude slings. They had been broken, they explained, in one of the nightly battles.

The captain was taken from his cabin, where he had locked himself with the ship's armament, 12 rifles and half a dozen pistols. He told revenue officers his crew of Norwegians, Swedes and Russians had caroused and fought every day since the Sagatind cleared Sept. 18 from Antwerp. His papers showed the ship had left Antwerp with a cargo of 100,000 cases of assorted liquors, of which they had sold 47,000 since arriving on "rum row." The iron safe in his cabin held $26,000 in American money, the receipts of the sale of the whisky.

Coast guard and custom officers broke up an attempt to run rum simultaneously into several harbors in Massachusetts when they seized five boats with 3,000 gallons of alcohol and a lot of whisky in cases and arrested nine men. The boats were caught six to eight miles off shore, heading in from the rum row off Cape Ann.

WOMAN GIVEN VOICE

Columbus, Oct. 14.—The general assembly of the Council of Churches adopted a program calling for expansion to provide liberal representation of women, establishment of a radio broadcasting station in Columbus to eliminate possibility of "conflicting voices in the air," and creation of a commission to study the divorce problem. The organization, representing 16 affiliated Protestant denominations, also decided on a vigorous campaign to "get out the Christian vote, with careful avoidance of partisan politics," branded commercialism as the most pernicious influence in present-day Sunday recreation, and voted to participate actively in future social and sex hygiene education, in co-operation with the board of health and other agencies.

Hereafter every local council will have three representatives, one minister, one lay delegate and one woman. For every 20,000 or major fraction thereof over the first 20,000 church members, three additional representatives, similarly apportioned, will be allowed.

The commission to study the divorce question will consist of five members. Special attention will be given to passage of national uniform divorce legislation, to the practice of Protestant ministers in remarriage of divorcees and the possibilities of education to promote a more serious attitude toward marriage on the part of both married and unmarried persons.

Six Firemen Injured.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 14.—Six firemen were burned seriously in a fire which swept oil tanks of the Clayco company, near this city. Two tanks, which had a capacity of 1,000 barrels, exploded. The explosion rocked houses for blocks around the plant. A match accidentally dropped in waste oil is said to have started the blaze, which almost immediately appeared to be beyond control.

HOUSEWORK SIDESTEPED

Over Supply of Female Clerks Noted by Superintendent Brach.

Columbus, Oct. 14.—O. W. Brach, superintendent of the free employment division of the department of public relations, in his latest report shows that in every one of the 12 Ohio cities in which free employment agencies are maintained there is an over supply of female clerks.

During the past week in Cleveland alone there were 232 claiming to be qualified for clerical positions who filed application for work, while the number of requests for such workers was only 25. In Columbus 90 women sought clerical work, but the number of requests for such help was just one-tenth of that number.

The report of Mr. Brach is interesting, as it shows that women are turning to clerical work rather than housework, where there is a real shortage of help, and in half of the cities the demand for domestic help was far ahead of the available supply.

The approaching holidays are expected to increase the demand for women clerks. Temporary jobs are usually opened during the holiday season to accommodate the rush of business.

Body Found on Roof.

Cincinnati, Oct. 14.—The body of Robert Brooks, 50, was found on the roof of the Fox Paper Goods company plant, in Lockland. Brooks had been missing from his home in Lockland for more than a week. According to the village authorities, there were no marks of violence.

KILLED HIS CHUM

Youth Admits, Police Say, That He Slew High School Student.

Canton, O., Oct. 14.—Police announced that Glenn Coldren, 16, confessed that he shot and killed Lee H. Koehrer, 16, McKinley high school student, Sept. 25. Coldren was arrested in Cincinnati after having been missing from Canton since the day on which the body of young Koehrer was found behind the furnace in the cellar of the Coldren home. Police say that Coldren admitted that he held the gun and pulled the trigger, causing his chum's death. A charge of manslaughter will be preferred against him. Chief of Police Lengel declared. After admitting he had shot Koehrer, the boy became hysterical, and officials were unable to get any further details of the death from him.

Dica of Knife Wounds.

Columbus, Oct. 14.—Wylie Ferguson, negro, died of knife wounds received in a fight with Cora Thompson, also colored. According to the woman's story to police, Ferguson attacked her with a knife at his home during an argument. The woman seized his wrist, she said, and in the scuffle Ferguson suffered a slash in the left leg, which severed an artery. He bled to death.

Hangs Himself.

Cincinnati, Oct. 14.—Louis E. Smith, a distributor in the accountant's office here, hanged himself with a wash line in the basement of his home. A brother said he suffered a nervous breakdown following his wife's death.

Dutch Form of Golf.

Where and when golf started nobody knows of a certainty; whether or not it comes from Holland or Scotland matters little, perhaps, except to the seeker after the truth and nothing but the truth. To him we would say that some sort of a game resembling golf was played in Holland oftentimes on the ice with stakes instead of holes. No rules for such play have ever been discovered, but from pictures we learn that the finish of this Hollandish form was somewhat after the fashion of croquet, with the ball being hit between two sticks.

INDIANS CLAIM BIG AREA IN TENNESSEE

Start Suit in Court for Five Million Acres.

Charlotte, N. C.—Claims to recover 5,000,000 acres of land embracing much of east Tennessee, and including the city of Chattanooga, has been filed by John M. Taylor, an attorney, who is a fullblood Cherokee Indian, before the Department of the Interior, for the Eastern Immigrant Cherokees of Oklahoma and North Carolina, basing his claims upon ancient treaties and the code of North Carolina, relating to the Indians, several thousand of whom are still domiciled in this state. The suits have been filed at Murphy, in Cherokee county, and in Tennessee.

In support of his claim the attorney has filed certified copies of various treaties negotiated with the Indians by the state of North Carolina. The claims are filed in behalf of Taylor and over 400 other "redskins." He has caused to be put into the record in both places where he filed claims a collection of papers on the contents of which he expects to establish his case. His admission to the bar as an attorney has also been filed.

Taylor, according to Representative Weaver of the Tenth North Carolina district, at one time resided in Cherokee county, later removing to Oklahoma, in which state the main portion of the Cherokee nation resides. Weaver asserts that Taylor has been in Washington on numerous occasions as a representative of the Cherokee Indians. The attorney insists that the Indians are entitled to interest amounting to $100,000,000.

Copy of Code Filed.

Among the voluminous papers filed in the case is a certified copy of an act from the code of North Carolina of 1783, in which it is recited that "The Cherokee Indians shall have and enjoy that tract of land bounded as follows, to-wit: Beginning on the Tennessee river, where the southern boundary of the state intersects the same nearest the Chickamauga towns; thence up the middle of the Tennessee and Holston rivers to the middle of the French Broad river; thence up the French Broad river (which line are not to include any islands in said river) to the mouth of the Big Pigeon river; thence up the same to the head thereof; thence along the dividing ridge between the waters of the Pigeon and Tuckashaw rivers to the southern boundary of the state, and the lands contained in the aforesaid bounds shall be reserved to the said Cherokee Indians and their nation forever, anything hereinbefore to the contrary notwithstanding."

Includes Chattanooga.

The "Chickamauga towns" referred to in the act were in the vicinity of what is now the city of Chattanooga, and the territory involved will include practically all of the area of that Tennessee metropolis. Taylor also sets up claim to 640 acres which he asserts lie in the Moccasin bend.

The attorney states further that under the act passed by the recent congress, Indians are allowed to bring suit in the Court of Claims for the recovery of Indian reserves. It is understood that Taylor, under this provision intends bringing suit for the entire reservation as set out in the North Carolina act, which granted the 5,000,000-acre tract to the Cherokees, the establishment of whose claims thereto were fixed by later treaties.

The state of Tennessee was at one time a part of North Carolina, and Taylor will attempt to show that the original act, granting territory embraced in the bounds of that commonwealth, was never repealed. There is also on record a memorandum to this effect:

"Say to our full-blood people that they must raise plenty of expense money."

Shed Moose Horns

Afford Hunter Living

Seattle, Wash.—A strange consignment arrived here from Seward. It was a shipment of moose antlers billed to a knife handle and bone novelty factory in Tacoma. The shipment represented two months' work of Mose Harris, who for years has tramped over the moose meadows of Kenai peninsula gathering the old horns dropped by the moose during the shedding process in February.

Harris says the antlers, although of the hardest bone material, must be gathered from the damp forests soon after they are left by the animals. In less than a year they would return to dust, so rapid is the decay in the swampy country. Once safely in a dry factory the bone is indestructible. From the broad smooth antlers, combs, handles and dice are cut. There is a growing market for the bone articles while scrap bone is shipped to China and Japan.

New Verdi Opera Found in Opera House Library

Budapest.—The library of the Budapest opera house has unexpectedly yielded a hitherto unknown opera by Giuseppe Verdi, entitled "The Robbers." The libretto is none other than Friedrich Schiller's famous drama of the same name.

It appears that Verdi composed a cycle of operas which have Schiller dramas for their texts. The cycle included "Don Carlos," "The Maid of Orleans," "The Robbers" and "Cabal and Love." The discovery of "The Robbers" will, it is believed, lead to the musical production of the whole cycle in the near future.

Cause of Earthquakes.
The usual cause of earthquakes is dislocation of the crust of the earth along fracture lines. There is a fracture line along the coast of Japan and another along the coast of California. The crust of the earth is constantly in motion, up or down, sideways or twisting. Millions of years may pass before bringing a strain so severe that the strata will slip or crumble along any great fault in the earth's crust, but when that slip comes there is an earthquake. Usually it is only a fraction of an inch, or a few inches. In Yakutat, southern Siberia, a slip of forty feet was once recorded, and the quake was felt all over the world.

Losses by Poisonous Weeds.

The loss of cattle and sheep due to poisonous weeds is very great. On the United States national forest ranges alone the loss in 1916 amounted to 6,648 cattle and 16,273 sheep, besides a number of horses, goats and other animals.

FARMER NOT AID IN ORGANIZATION OF THIRD PARTY

RADICALS IN POWER BAN SOIL TILLERS

Blacklist Includes Their Defenders in Congress.

LaFollette was entered in the race for President by an aggregation of national and international labor unions. The public, and particularly the farmer, had no voice whatever in his so-called nomination. There has existed for over three years an organization known as the Conference for Progressive Political Action, composed of 16 or 18 national and international labor unions, the majority of them railway labor organizations.

The officers of this Conference for Progressive Political Action are on the whole the national and international officers of the labor organizations composing the conference. The chairman or president of this conference is William Johnston, president of the International Machinists' union, and the director of the railroad strike in 1922. Mr. Johnston was recently candidate for governor of Rhode Island on the Socialist ticket. The headquarters of this conference is in the Machinists' building, Washington, D. C., a building owned by the International Machinists.

This conference held its annual meeting in St. Louis in February, 1924, adopted a platform, pledged itself to launch a third party, and adjourned to meet in Cleveland July 4 for that purpose. The convention in Cleveland on July 4 was therefore nothing but the adjourned meeting of the Conference for Progressive Political Action. The delegates to the Cleveland convention were merely delegates from the labor organizations comprising the Conference for Progressive Political Action, plus a few scattering delegates from the Socialist party and a few radical organizations such as the League for Industrial Democracy. The Conference for Progressive Political Action established its own rules regarding whom it would admit as delegates and these rules were so framed that no one not in hearty accord with the views of the labor organizations comprising the conference was admitted. Out of approximately 1,000 delegates, less than 25 were farmers or representatives of alleged farmer organizations.

The officers of the Conference for Political Action were the officers of the convention. William Johnston, Socialist leader, was the temporary and also the permanent chairman. After organizing the convention, a resolution was drawn up and sent to Senator LaFollette asking him to lead in a fight for a third party. Not a single farmer or representative of a bona fide farmer organization signed this petition.

The so-called platform adopted at this convention offers absolutely nothing to the farmer. It consisted practically altogether of a recital of the alleged grievances of organized labor and a demand for the enactment of their legislative program. Not a farmer was a member of any of the committees of this convention, neither the committee on resolutions nor editorial, nor organization, nor nominations. The chairman of each of these committees was an official of some international labor organization. The personnel of these committees were either officials high in international railway labor organizations or officials high in the Socialist party, and other radical organizations.

The convention went on record in behalf of the candidacy of LaFollette. LaFollette was officially notified of his nomination by a committee appointed by Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor and no member of this committee was a farmer. LaFollette acknowledged his nomination in the form of a letter addressed not to the people of the United States, but to the American Federation of Labor.

The campaign committee handling the LaFollette-Wheeler movement is the National Committee of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, plus a number of Socialists. The addition of Socialists to this committee was demanded by the Socialist party as the price of their support of the ticket. This demand was made at a meeting of the committee held in Washington July 21, at which time representatives of the Socialist party were present and insisted that they be given 10 per cent of the committee. Their demand was granted. There is an executive committee of 1 handling the inside stuff of the LaFollette-Wheeler campaign. No farmer is on this committee. The campaign headquarters of the LaFollette-Wheeler movement is 408 Machinists building, Washington, D. C.

The Conference for Progressive Political Action issues a weekly publication known as Labor. The farmer has no part in it. It is managed and edited wholly by representatives of labor organizations. It is their official campaign publication.

Healthy Complexion Assured.
Martha was a pale little wife whose white cheeks indicated her listless condition. Her husband worried about her lack of bloom till Cousin Helen came from the East for a visit. Martha improved wonderfully with bright companionship. Her husband was not slow to express his gratitude to his wife's cousin. "Helen, you can't imagine how much good your visit has done Martha. She looks ten years younger." "Well, I am so glad, Cousin George," Helen bubbled. "And if she keeps on using that rouge I'm leaving her she'll always have that healthy complexion, like mine."—Exchange.

'If you will wait until I hew this yew, I will go with you anywhere in Europe to look for your ewes,' said Hugh."—Tit-Bits.

ROYALTY IS SPARED
BY LONDON CROOKS

Convention Is Strictly Observed by Underworld.

New York.—Officials in America who are charged with the protection of visiting royalty—for instance, the prince of Wales—would be saved considerable worry if American thieves would accept a convention observed by their colleagues in the United Kingdom. British thieves will not rob any member of the royal family.

There are laws of the underworld that exist chiefly in the minds of outsiders, such as "honor among thieves," but the exemption of royalty seems to have a somewhat firmer basis, if the police records show anything at all. Robbing royalty isn't considered "clubby."

London's crookdom believes there's a divinity that hedges round a king, even if New York's thieves are strong for democracy in such professional matters.

It is said that in things of this sort the personal popularity of a royal individual is a factor. Yet even so popular a figure as the prince of Wales, who became King Edward, was robbed of a gold watch in 1865. It was at the Chertsey steeplechase. And he never got the watch back. That, however, is one of the few exceptions, which include also the theft of a dressing case from the duke of Edinburgh 50 years or so ago.

Little affairs of that kind are regarded as showing a want to tact. A king's messenger would be fair game, but not a king himself.

This attitude came to light in a practical form only a few months ago, after want of tact had been displayed by some one undetermined. The victim was Prince George. The king's youngest son left some trinkets in his motor in the West End, and they disappeared. There were a set of diamond cuff links that Queen Alexandra had given him, a stickpin and some other links, one set bearing a "G" in diamonds and another of different fashion.

The loss became known to the public and in a day or two a reticent man visited a police official and left a little package. Everything was there.

Farm Hand Falls Heir

Y., farmland for whom Dallas (Texas) attorneys had been conducting a search throughout the country to turn over to him the $854,000 estate left him by his uncle, Charles E. Leavenworth, Kan.—Dale Dunkin, a youth weighing 320 pounds, plunged eight feet into the basement of a store when the stone flagging over which he was walking broke in the center. The slab of stone was eight feet long and three inches thick. Dunkin was injured severely.

Stings Horse to Death

Randolph, Kan.—A horse ridden to work and tied to a tree while its owner, Andy Homan, was at work, was stung to death by a swarm of bees. Homan tried to release the horse, but the bees stung him so severely that he was compelled to flee.

Lost Golf Ball Found
by Dying Rattlesnake

Augusta, Ga.—Local golfers have killed wild birds and pigeons with their mighty drives, and it is even said that innocent bystanders have been knocked silly by ill-guided balls, but it remained for Morton Jones, automobile dealer, to set a new record in this line. Playing golf with Judge J. C. C. Black, Hugh H. Saxon and Miltredge Lockhart, Mr. Jones sliced his ball on the twelfth tee and when the elusive pill was found behind a shallow declivity it was lying close beside a diamond-back rattlesnake which was in the throes of death. The snake measured three feet and had two rattles.

MINSTRELS A BIG SUCCESS

Crowded House Greeted C. A. C.

Artists at Grand Opera House.

Minstrelsy De Luxe was given the public by the C. A. C. Monday evening to a crowded house, under the direction of The Charley Gano Production company, of Marion, Ohio.

Expectancy gave way to delight as the curtain rolled up displaying a beautiful Venetian stage setting in a riot of colors. The end men were in their suits of yellow and black and the balladists and choristers in suits of sheer white. The interluctor had his men well in hand and the performance proceeded from the opening to the finish as tho it was greased with oil taken from the Teapot Dome district.

The C. A. C. orchestra, also locally known as Kibler's orchestra, was all there and in the open medley of popular airs, caught the ear of the audience, who were just waiting to hear and see good things.

To whip a bunch of raw ones into shape and to take the green out of a lot of boys who have never appeared before the public is not a small job but that old-time minstrel, Charley Gano, did the act and presented to the public Monday evening a company of home talent that is worth going miles to see and hear. The acting and singing was really good and the jokes were clean and not offensive and made a hit and many were original.

The balladists were in their best voice and their songs made a hit and the olio was very clever. The violin numbers played by Miss Elizabeth Groce, accompanied by Miss Anna Schleyer were very pleasing and were roundly encored. The Gano-Gallaher skit was very good and "Bill" Pickens was a real show. He is a genuine minstrel and is equal to any professional.

The dancing and singing by Miss Eleanor Snyder with Miss Alys Seitz as accompanist, was most graceful and winsome. She is very captivating in the terpsichorean art. Miss Snyder is also endowed with a sweet voice and her singing and dancing made a hit.

The finale, the Dark Town Radio club on Broadcast Isle, one of Mr. Gano's inventions and invention, was a real show in itself. It was the concert of a big circus and was worth staying to see as it made a hit with the audience. All those who took part are to be commended for their acting as they seemed to know their lines and all went as merry as a marriage bell.

In fact, the whole production of the minstrel was good and the C. A. C. need not be ashamed as it was tip-top. The Grand ought to have a crowded house tonight. There are a few good seats left and these will be probably be taken before the curtain goes up this evening.

TWO MORTALLY WOUNDED

Woman Slain by Man Whose Advances Had Been Spurned.

Newark, O., Oct. 14.—Fred Sabiano, 31, and Mrs. Antonio Nicolantonio, 22, were mortally wounded, police say, as the result of Sabiano's attempt at thrusting his attentions on the woman. According to police, Sabiano approached the Nicolantonio home with a revolver. Mrs. Nicolantonio saw him coming and shot him five times with a revolver. He staggered under the volley of shots, but managed to fire one shot at the woman through a window. The bullet penetrated her abdomen. According to the police, Nicolantonio seized a shotgun and sprayed Sabiano with shot. The former was arrested and is held in jail.

Sabiano attempted to force his attentions on Mrs. Nicolantonio two years ago, according to the police. At that time, it is said, she shot and wounded him.

Santa Not Enemy Alien.

Of what nationality is Santa Claus? a friend asks. Of almost every nationality, we would say. If you mean to ask the derivation of the name, it is a corrupted form of the Holland Dutch name for St. Nicholas and has no "enemy alien" taint. The saint himself was a native of Patara in the province of Lycia, Asia Minor, and was bishop of Myra in the same province.

Incurable, Too.

Little Edith was very fond of hearing her father play the guitar, but one evening he placed a table knife across the strings and it sounded somewhat like a ukulele. Edith listened for a moment and then said: "Papa, what makes the music sound so sick?"

Barrel for Feeding
Slops Quite HandySaves Task of Dipping Out
Material by Bucketful.

Feeding slops, which are mixed together in a barrel, is quite a tedious task, as the stuff has to be dipped out of the barrel and fed to the hogs by the bucketful. A much easier method of emptying the barrel is shown in

Pivoted Slop Barrel on Farm Facility
Saves Task of Feeding Hogs.

The drawing. The barrel is pivoted between two posts, securely set into the ground. This is done by bolting or screwing around the barrel a heavy iron band in which two short sections of shafting are mounted to serve as pivots. A metal spout is nailed to the edge of the barrel at the mouth to facilitate pouring the slop. A wooden chute, slanting toward the feed trough, is extended from the barrel, and the slop is poured into this.—R. E. Deering, Clements, Kan., in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Experience Demonstrates

Fat Hen Is Best Layer

"We often hear the remark 'she's too fat to lay.' This I know to be a mistaken idea, as I have had experience (in forty-odd years) with both fat and poor hens, and have always found the fat hen to be a layer," writes William Hart Harrison in the Farm Journal.

"While it is not necessary for her to be overfat, I do not believe she ever gets too fat to lay well. The 'boot' is on the other foot, it is the poor hen that never lays well, and often not at all.

"A hen to be in the best possible laying condition must have considerable surplus fat in her body. This means that her bodily wants have been supplied, and there is some food or fat to spare. Such a hen has surplus vigor, strength and energy, which cause her to lay well. A poor hen has scarcely enough energy and strength to keep body alive, to say nothing of producing eggs. Common sense should teach us that."

Pigs Farrowed in March
Will Make Most Profit

Pigs farrowed in March make the big profit, because pigs farrowed early make the best use of green pastures through the summer months and are big enough so that they can be turned into a field of corn as soon as it is ready and can be marketed off the corn by the first to middle of November. The farmer who had March pigs last year and took care of them through the summer and then had a field of corn to turn them on early in September and who sold them between the first and fifteenth of November, weighing 180 to 200 pounds, made as much money from his hogs this year as he ever did. Keep the brood sows in a good place and get them bred early.—W. H. Peters, North Dakota Experiment Station.

Farm Hints

Plant alfalfa only on well prepared seedbed with 30 pounds of inoculated seed.

More ton-litter sows will bring the production of pork back into the profitable class of agricultural activities.

Broodiness is inherited and can be reduced by not breeding from the hens which are broody more than once in a year.

Feed the calves enough, but don't overfeed them. They will do better if kept just a little hungry. Overfeeding causes digestive troubles.

Not every dairymen appreciates the need of the dairy cow for water. Scientists tell us that she requires four pounds of water for every pound of milk produced.

Those who are using mechanical milkers should never overlook the importance of keeping the machine and its parts scrupulously clean. If this is not done the milk or cream is bound to be off flavor.

When the hens and chickens are crowded, lice multiply especially rapidly. Crowding poultry is bad at any time, but especially so in hot weather and with growing chicks. It stunts their growth and causes great loss in that the pullets never attain their full possible value.

Seek Healthy View Point.
If you desire to possess a broad, healthy point of view, observe the horde of restless, unhappy men and women who have failed to find happiness through a worship of false gods, and who find it only after having found a purpose that would effectively serve humanity. They will teach you a lesson on the futility of striving after the things that serve no useful end. Get a healthy viewpoint upon life!ROBINSON FARM SOLD.

AMUSEMENTS

In "Triumph," which opened a three days' run at the Met theater last evening, Cecil B. DeMille returns from the ancient spectacle of his "Ten Commandments" to the type of ultra-modern society love drama in which he scored his most sensational successes and of which "Male and Female" and "Manslaughter" were such notable examples.

Here is the typical DeMille production, with its gorgeous settings, luxurious backgrounds, beautiful women, flashing gowns and an array of featured players that looks more like a copy of the roster of the Paramount studios than a cast. Leatrice Joy, Rod La Rocque and Victor Varconi have the principal roles. Then there is Charles Ogle, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff, Robert Edeson, Zasu Pitts, George Fawcett and Raymond Hatton, all featured. Quite a line-up you'll agree.

"Triumph" is the story of a strong man ruined by money and a weak man regenerated thru loss of it, and thru a wonderful girl. It takes one man from the haunts of the rich and tosses him into the gutter. It takes another from poverty to wealth and high position. It shows you a factory girl in the whirl and thunder of ponderous machinery. It shows the same girl at the pinnacle of what she calls "Triumph," with wealth, jewels, applause.

Like "Manslaughter," "Triumph" is a strictly modern love story adapted from a popular Saturday Evening Post serial. May Edginton is the author and Clara Beranger wrote the screen play.

AUTO SUPPLIES.

Sheriff Robert J. Young has a complete line of auto supplies and accessories that he found in the possession of four men who have been employed as corn cutters on the farm of L. M. Hosler in Jackson township. The men arrested gave the names of Tom Cernus and Holloway brothers. They claim to be from Portsmouth. At night they had the habit of going around in the neighborhood where they were employed and stole spotlights, jacks, wrenches and even wheels off autos.

Miners Defy Lewis.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 14.—Miners employed by the Glen Alden Coal company defied the power of John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, by declaring a general strike. The strikers posted pickets at three mines, with the result that these collieries were idle. The general strike was ordered by the grievance committee of the Glen Alden mine because one man was unable to secure work at the Taylor mine. President Lewis ordered the men to remain at their posts under threat of being disciplined, but the warning was ignored.

Eyes Had to Be Blue.

Blue-eyed babies always claim a preponderance of admirers. The fact has just again been emphasized—this time at Hampstead, England. It was announced in the press that the town officials had a "bonny blue-eyed baby" for adoption, and straightway 350 would-be adopters wrote to secure it. Unfortunately it was found that the infant's eyes had been wrongly described. The eyes were not blue, after all, and when they heard of this some of the ladies withdrew their offers.

Sick Poultry Can Be Cured Any Season of the Year.

Circleville, O., R. F. D. 6, September 29, 1924.

Mrs. Edward H. Wardell, winner of Grand Sweep Stakes for best dozen eggs in show in Ohio State university, held February, 1924, says:

Mr. F. L. Fickard, Dear Sir:— I am only too glad to recommend Fickard's Roup and Cholera Drops to any one interested in poultry, as the best preventative for contagious diseases I know of, on the market today. About three years ago cholera broke out in my flock of young chickens, which were then about six weeks old, and weighing about 1½ pounds. There were 175 birds in this flock. As soon as I discovered they were sick I began treating them according to instructions of a specialist. I only lost eleven out of 175, and checked the disease in about three days. At that time Fickard's Roup and Cholera Drops was recommended to me as a wonderful medicine to be used as a preventive of contagious diseases. At that time I began using the Drops and have not had an epidemic since, altho I lose one or two now and then from common causes such as apoplexy, egg-bound, etc. I begin giving it to the chicks when they are quite young and from that time on they are never without it. At the present time I am shipping two cases of eggs a week and have been for the last six months, from my flock of 180 hens and I attribute this high egg production to the healthy condition of my flock. I always grade and candle my eggs and I have attained such a degree of perfection that I have less than three per cent of my eggs that do not run over the specified weight of 24 ounces to the dozen.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Edward H. Wardell.

PEOPLE WOULD PAY IF RAILROADS WERE GOVERNMENT OWNED

Third Party Plan Would Take Revenue From States Involved.

If the railroads of the United States should be taken over, owned and operated by the government, the vast taxes now paid by the railroads would have to be paid by the people, according to Will R. Wood, member of congress from Indiana and chairman of the Republican National Congressional committee. Mr. Wood has made a careful analysis of the situation, noting the tax payments by the railroads to the several state governments last year.

If the roads were owned by the government they would be tax free just as the post offices now are. The states would still need the money, just as they do now, and as a result additional taxes would have to be levied on the citizens.

"Robert M. LaFollette, the Socialist-third party candidate for President, is trying to convince 6,000,000 farmers that the surest cure for their ills is to bring about government ownership of all the railroads in the country; that, if this is done, transportation rates of all kinds would be immediately reduced.

"There are a lot of things, however, that would transpire if this scheme were carried out, that Senator LaFollette is woefully silent upon. He is not telling the farmers that the government pays no taxes on its properties and that it would pay no taxes on the railroads of the country if it owned them. He is not telling them that the railroads are paying into the various county and state treasuries of the United States more than $300,000,000 annually, which sum would have to be paid, in large part, by the farmers, once the government began the ownership of the railroads.

"Take the state of Wisconsin for instance: Last year the railroads paid the state of Wisconsin $7,321,976 in taxes. In the state of Minnesota the railroads paid, last year, a total tax to the state of $8,425,982. In Iowa they paid $6,849,703; in Kansas, $6,739,346; in Indiana, $13,094,627. In these five states alone the railroads paid $42,431,634 of the public tax burden. I have taken the figures in the above named states because they are largely agricultural and in the event that the government became the owner of the railroads of the country the farmers of these states would have to bear the greatest part of the burden in paying these additional taxes.

"In the state of Iowa if the LaFollette scheme were carried out, it would mean an increase of $32 in taxes annually levied against each farm in the state, or $2.80 for each man, woman and child in the state. In Kansas the burden would be $40 against each farm or $3.90 for each resident of that state. In Minnesota, where Mr. LaFollette is making a strong appeal for votes, he would take away from the farmer, under the government ownership plan, a tax income now paid by the railroads and place it as an additional assessment of $47 against each farm in the state, or $3.80 against each person residing in that commonwealth.

"I am told that, in one county in Montana, the total tax paid by the railroads amounts to 38.51 per cent of the entire levy. In midsummer of this year there was $104,102 of the total tax assessed in that county delinquent, upon which a penalty had been laid. This is convincing evidence that this county was already taxed much more than it was able to pay. Yet Mr. LaFollette would take away 38½ per cent of the tax revenue of this county, now being paid by the railroads, and place it as an additional burden upon the individual taxpayer.

"In my own state of Indiana, the railroads pay $13,094,627 in taxes annually. The total tax of the state is $124,866,790. The railroads share of this tax is over 10 per cent. If Mr. LaFollette's scheme were put into effect, the individual taxpayer of Indiana would have to pay this additional sum of $13,094,627 each year. In Marion county the railroads pay annually $715,388 in taxes, a very substantial item in the total of the taxes paid in that county.

"The figures that I have given, applicable to the five agricultural states named, differ only in degree from those that might be given for every other state in the Union.

"Not only would the farmers be burdened by the payment of these additional taxes, should the government become the owners of the railroads, but they would also have an additional burden to bear, the size of which it is hard to ascertain, in the shape of deficits occurring in the operation of the railroads of the country for maintenance, extensions and upkeep.

"Some idea of what this burden would be, may be had, however, by recalling the experience during the period of government operation of the railroads under the management of William G. McAdoo, when the amount of the deficit over the earnings of those railroads taken over by the government was more than a million dollars a day, exclusive of the payment of exorbitant salaries to an army of officers.

"The farmers of this country, before they accept the panacea of government ownership of railroads, which is but a forerunner of the socialistic state, will do well to 'Stop, Look and Listen.'"

Owl Stopped Wheels of Industry.

The curious combination of an owl and a steel trap in which the bird had become caught and flown away, trap and all, lighting on a high-powered electric cable carrying 11,000 volts of electricity to run a mill at Goodyear, Conn., stopped the power and threw several hundred men out of work for several hours. Linemen, after several hours' search, located the owl, burned to a cinder.

"The Sport of Kings."

A mantle of rich silk or cloth appears to have been the usual prize for horse racing in the fourteenth century; bells and gold snaffles were run for in the fifteenth century; cups gradually came into fashion in the sixteenth century. Racing colors of silk and satin seem to have been in use in Henry the Eighth's reign.

This is a new all-weather sports coat, duo-tone in effect, the boxes being separated by bands of long-fibered lustrous mohair and filled with a raised face of downy wool.

Fall Styles to Please
Both Stout and Slender

The modes of the season are well established now, and we can pick and choose to our heart's content; only taking care that we choose the modes which are most becoming to our own particular style of beauty, advises a fashion writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The tall slender girl will find no mode more becoming than the tunic, especially if it flares slightly at the hem and is banded in fur. This style of frock is fashioned of both cloth and silk, the heavier bengalines and ottomans developing very well in this way.

The tall slender type also will be able to wear tier effects with great success. These tiers sometimes assume a spiral line or they may circle the figure in a horizontal effect. When developed in a satin faced crepe the satin side is often used for the tiers.

The coat frock or the straight silhouette will add height to the short stout woman, who need not be afraid of wearing a narrow belt placed a trifle below the natural waistline as many of the fall models, despite the vogue for the beltless frock, use the narrow string tie. The tall stout woman, besides wearing these styles becomingly, will also be able to wear the straightline tunic.

Then there is the ensemble costume about which so much is said this fall. Consisting of a sleeveless or long-sleeved frock or tunic blouse and skirt and a separate jacket. It is richly embellished with fur and embroidery. It is prophesied that this will be one of the most popular modes of the season.

There also is the costume with a set-in dress front which gives all the effect of a long coat and a matching frock. This is frequently developed in a heavy bengaline and will undoubtedly prove popular for fall wear. A wrap is shown which also carries out this dress front idea.

Add Bright Colors to New Autumn Headgear

All-black hats are few among the autumn models, the majority of blacks being combined with a color or metal, which latter is extremely strong. Velvet is the leading material, with felt following.

Something new in velvet is "velours vegetal"—a fiber material made in plain color or printed with handsome designs. There is a new wrinkled velvet, too.

Flat gold or silver appliques trim the flaring front brim of some small hats that are entirely without brim at the back. The crown is round and the style is suited to youthful faces.

Small, brightly colored ostrich tips in tight clusters or flat spreading fan arrangements is a favorite trimming effect on large-brimmed afternoon hats of velvet and hatter's plush.

Decorating the Heel

In order to be as fanciful as possible, one sports pump of brown and white shown in Paris has a high brown heel on which shines a white monogram. Only the left heel is so decorated.

Sycamore Blight
Is Most Severe

Trees in Many States East of Mississippi River Hard
Hit This Year.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Sycamore trees this spring and early summer were especially hard hit by a blight, commonly known as sycamore blight, in many states east of the Mississippi river, notably Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Illinois, and Virginia. The disease affects not only the common sycamore, or buttonwood, but also the oriental plane tree.

Due to Wet Spring. Although the blight occurs to a slight extent every year in the eastern and central United States, the severity of the attack this year, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, appears to be largely due to the unusually wet spring, when the leaves were developing.

The blight injures the newly developed leaves and the young shoots. The new leaves just unfolding from the bud suddenly wither, become discolored, and finally blacken, giving the appearance of injury by frost. On the older leaves the disease appears as brown blotches or spots of irregular shape, usually along the veins. In severe cases the leaves fall, but a new crop usually is produced later in the summer. Continued defoliation in successive years and the severe dying back of the twigs eventually cause the death of the tree.

Methods of Control.

As in the case of most tree diseases, methods of controlling the blight are rather extensive and usually somewhat difficult to carry out. The value of the tree, however, for shade or ornamental purposes may possibly warrant the expense and trouble. As a first step in controlling the disease, the infected twigs should be carefully removed by pruning well back of the infected portion. All of these twigs, together with any fallen leaves and twigs, should be carefully collected and burned. They should not be thrown onto the rubbish heap, since that is often one of the most favorable places for the fungus to fruit. Its spores may then be carried to healthy trees which may thus become infected. After all the infected twigs are cut away the remainder of the tree should be sprayed with bordeaux mixture in the proportions 4-4-50. A second or third application of a weaker solution of bordeaux mixture may be necessary before midsummer to protect the new foliage. Again, in the autumn, it is advisable to rake up and burn all fallen leaves and twigs, since this tends to prevent the spread of any disease which may be present upon them.

Mash Is Developed for General Purpose Breeds

A good mash for breeding and laying hens of general purpose breeds containing only 17 per cent of meat scrap has been developed by the United States Department of Agriculture. The remainder of the protein in the mash is contained in vegetable form and the 33 per cent of ground oats and bran gives the rations the desired bulk. The mash seems to be particularly good in raising the hatchability and fertility of eggs. The more stimulating rations seem to cause an over-fat condition in general purpose birds, especially during the second year of production. Special attention is now being given to the vitamin content of eggs and their fertility and hatchability as affected by rations.

Asparagus Beds Started
Early in Spring or Fall

Asparagus beds may either be started early in the spring or in the fall. Either seed or plants may be used. Satisfactory plants may be obtained the first season from seed. It should be sown as soon in the spring as the ground can be worked. Mix with radish seed so that the row will be marked for cultivation because the asparagus seeds will not germinate for about four weeks. When they are up, they should be thinned to about 3 inches apart. Cultivate all summer and the plants may be set in the fall in a permanent bed in rows about 4 feet apart and a space of 18 inches in the row.

Prepare for Wheat

Early plowing or early disking of the ground which goes into wheat this fall is a most important part of the preparation, because it insures a compact seedbed, tolerably free from weeds, and besides it stimulates fall growth of both root and stem and thereby gives the growing crop greater winter resistance. The wheat seedbed is all the better if it is allowed to settle four or five weeks before seeding is done.

Cause of Dead Pigs

A breeder recently reported that for several years he had been having poor success with his brood sows. So many of them farrowed dead pigs. It dawned on him one day that he was forcing his sows to jump over a two-by-six door sill when going to and coming from the sleeping shed. He removed this sill, and since has had excellent success in saving the pigs.
